Detailed Course Information

Required Text:
Bentley and Zeigler, Traditions and Encounters, vol. 2, 5th or 6th ed.

Course descriptions and objectives: This course is a survey of development of world history from early modern times to the present. Special emphasis will be placed on the political, intellectual, cultural and economic aspects of early civilizations in the world environment.

Prerequisites/standards: This course has no official prerequisite courses. This is, however, a college-level course that awards college credit under the auspices of the University System of Georgia. To earn this credit, students in this course must perform passing college-level work as determined by the instructor applying professional standards of evaluation. All students in this course are presumed to be both 1) capable of and 2) willing to perform passing college-level work in the English language. One or both of these presumptions shall be rebutted by a student's poor performance in the course. Barring formal withdrawal by the official deadline or some other reason acceptable to the administration, any student whose performance in this course does not constitute passing college-level work will receive an F in the course. This F will become a permanent part of the student's college transcript.

Technology Requirements: Regular and reliable Internet access to the course web page and its contents is required.

Student Learning Outcomes: By the end of the course, the successful student should (SLO): demonstrate an understanding of political, social, economic institutional and cultural developments across the globe. The student will write an essay to explain political, social, economic, institutional or cultural developments in a global context. For example, the essay should trace the development of a theme or themes over time, or compare two or more cultures.

Policies

Attendance policies: Students whose number of absences is more than twice the number of class meetings per week (4 per semester) may be assigned a failing grade for the course at the discretion of the instructor. Students who have more absences than the number of class meetings per week but less than twice the number of class meetings per week (3 per semester), may be docked a letter grade for the class at the discretion of the instructor. Students who have absences which are less than or equal to the number of class meetings per week (1 or 2 per semester) will not be penalized.

The instructor endeavors to begin class punctually. If a student is not in his seat when the roll is called, or if a student leaves class early, the student will be recorded as tardy. Two tardies equals one absence. If you anticipate being late to class please notify the instructor beforehand.

Class Behavior Expectations and Consequences for Violations: Middle Georgia State University students are responsible for reading, understanding, and abiding by the MGA Student Code of Conduct.” Student Code of Conduct, Responsibilities, Procedures, and Rights are found at http://www.mga.edu/student-affairs/docs/MGA_Student_Handbook.pdf#page=45

Examinations and other assignments should always be the students own work. Plagiarism or cheating will be punished by an F in the course and other sanctions may be imposed by the university. Please read Code of Conduct carefully to make sure that you understand these concepts, and ask the instructor if you have any questions.

Electronics Policy: Computers and other electronic devices may not be used in class without a disability accommodation request (see below). Cell phones should be switched off and stored. In the event of a family emergency, please request permission in advance to leave your phone on. You should bring paper and pen or pencil to class to take notes.

Disability Accommodations: Students seeking ADA accommodations must contact Middle Georgia State University Office of Disability Services in Macon at (478) 471-2985 or in Cochran at (478) 934-3023. <http://www.mga.edu/disability-services/>
